The possibility should not be excluded that tank units of this division have, in the meantime, been transferred to Liegnitz. It remains to be seen whether the renewed occupation of town districts

25X1	(4)	Soviet combat troops were stationed in Warsaw in September 1950. However, it is possible that Soviet liaison staffs and supply agencies were located in Warsaw atthat time. The statement that no Soviet troops were located in Modlin or Torun agrees with previous information. Soviet troops were last observed in Poznan in late March 1948. According to another report of late October 1948, military telephone and telegraph lines were operated by the Soviets between Siedlec (R 53/L 88) and Poznan via Warsaw and between Poznan and Danzig. The presence of Soviet troops at the Biedrusko maneuver area is believed doubtful. Soviet troops, including tank units, were observed in Oppeln in late September 1948. As mentioned in Comment (2), elements of the 20th Tank Div, including the divisions headquarters, were located in Oppeln. The present report supports that information. Polish troops are also stationed in Oppeln, which is one of the few military posts which are occupied by both Polish and Soviet units.
